Knuckey, Morton Named to the 2014 ACC Board of Directors

Alexandria, VA - The Airport Consultants Council (ACC) is pleased to welcome Todd Knuckey, P.E. of Atkins Global and Arthur "JJ" Morton, P.E. of Kimley-Horn & Associates, Inc. as new members of the ACC Board of Directors. They will fill vacancies on the board created by the departures of Marc Champigny, formerly of Louis Berger Group and now with C&S Companies, and Solomon Wong with InterVISTAS.

Per ACC bylaws, Knuckey and Morton were nominated by ACC Board of Directors Chair David Peshkin with Applied Pavement Technology, Inc. and approved by a majority of board members to serve out the remainder of the terms, which end in November 2014.

Peshkin thanked Champigny and Wong when announcing the new board members. "Both Marc Champigny and Solomon Wong were enthusiastic and engaged members of the board and their presence will be missed. I have the highest respect for the contributions Marc and Solomon made to ACC and the board, and I am counting on their continued involvement in ACC events and committees," said Peshkin.

"I am pleased that J.J. Morton and Todd Knuckey have agreed to fill these two positions for the remainder of the terms, and I look forward to working more closely with J.J. and Todd in the coming months. Please join me in welcoming them to the 2014 ACC Board of Directors."

"ACC has benefited from the contributions of Solomon and Marc to board discussions and activities, and we appreciate their dedication to the organization," said ACC President T.J. Schulz. "I am excited to have Todd and J.J. represented on the board, as they are both leaders in aviation that are well-respected by their peers for their professionalism and industry knowledge. They have been dedicated advocates of ACC through leading and supporting ACC committees, events and other initiatives. The organization, its members and the industry will be well served by their presence on the board."

Knuckey is a central aviation regional manager in Atkin's Chicago office. He has nearly 30 years of experience in multidisciplinary aviation projects. During his career, he has led projects throughout the Midwest, including Indianapolis International, Louisville International, Memphis International, Nashville International, New Orleans International and O'Hare International Airports. Prior to his election to the board, Knuckey served in leadership positions of the ACC Institute and Legislative & Regulatory (now Advocacy) Committees and was a member of the Engineering, Finance & Project Delivery and multiple event planning committees.

Morton is a vice president in Kimley-Horn's Chicago office. He has a wide range of experience in civil engineering specializing in multiple aspects of aviation. His recent airport experience has included work at O'Hare International Airport, Detroit Metropolitan International Airport, Memphis International Airport, Northwest Arkansas Regional Airport, Nashville International Airport, and Bill and Hillary Clinton National Airport. Prior to his election to the board, Morton served in leadership positions of the ACC Engineering Committee and was chair of the 2013 Airport Planning, Design and Construction Symposium.

The Airport Consultants Council (ACC) is the international trade association that represents private businesses involved in the development and operations of airports and related facilities. ACC is the only association that focuses exclusively on the business interests of firms with airport-related technical expertise. ACC informs its members of new trends while promoting fair competition and procurement practices that protect the industry's bottom line. Founded in 1978, ACC Headquarters is located in the Washington, D.C. area. View this release online at ACCOnline.org.
